

GREATER THAN EVER

Wonderful Work of the Mount Carmel Academy.

AN IMMENSE ADDITION

Has Capacity for Two Hundred Students.

Mount Carmel Academy is the new name for All Hallows, Wichita's celebrated young ladies boarding school. The name is engraved in enduring granite over the front entrance to the beautiful new addition built at a cost of $40,000. The name was suggested by Rev. John J. Hennessy, bishop of the diocese, who has always held that "All Hallows" was not an appropriate name for a young ladies' seminary. The famous "All Hallows" of Ireland is a boys' school, and it was a priest who graduated from that institution who christened the Wichita academy in honor of his alma mater. Under whatever name, this academy will always inspire the people of Wichita with pride. But the pride of Wichitans is inspired only by the achievements of the school, its magnificent victory over the adverse conditions that prevailed during the first half of the last decade, when so many institutions were shaken to their foundations, if not swept entirely away. Their pride would be increased tenfold if they could all see the beauty of the location and the imposing grandeur of the structure in its present development.

And in good to the sisters. The maple walks of a few years ago have grown to stately trees, while nature has deigned neighboring groves the privilege even of dwarfed existence. Their blue-green has flourished beyond comparison with that seen by others under equal advantages and for whose reason their gardens have prospered and bloomed well, if not luxuriantly. Wichita people have heard in a general way that many skilled artisans have labored for several months at the academy, but owing to its sequestration from the busy centers of the metropolis few have anything like a proper conception of the immensity of the work being done. Enthusiasm and endurance are the first essentials in all Catholic architecture, and in this instance they are adhered to in the most minute details.

Yesterday a reporter for the Eagle was received by the sister superior in the reception room of the original academy, where she kindly gave him such information as he desired with reference to the new building.

"Sit, perhaps," she said, "you would prefer to see it for yourself. It was necessary to pass through the class room. When the door was opened and the young lady students noted the presence of a visitor every day daughter of the south and west land, as it were by a single governing thought, rose from their seats with the perfection of clock work and remained standing while the visitors were in their presence. It was an instantaneous manifestation of perfection of discipline that was beautifully impressive.

"This," said the sister superior, "is the entrance," pointing to an unobtrusive stairway, attractive for its width and the angle of its incline, designed with a view to the conservation of energy in those who may ascend it. It is a well known fact that sharp inclines in stairways are a menace to the health of young ladies and all the stairways in the academy are constructed with this material objection removed. On the first floor of the new building are twelve music rooms, a beautiful and spacious reception room, a very pretty and cozy parlor, a commodious and comfortable reading room, a library and reading room and an office for the sister superior. The music rooms are all separate and each will be supplied with a guitar, mandolin and, in fact, all of the smaller stringed instruments. In the general music room there is a magnificent harp, the sisters deeming it one of the most charming musical instruments ever designed by man.

On the second floor are two large dormitories, an infirmary, a spacious studio with windows especially designed for light advantages, a guest room and a chapel. The chapel will be supplied with beautiful imported stained glass, a chancel window and an altar that will be a masterpiece of art in the state, if not in the west, from an artistic standpoint. It will have a seating capacity for nearly 400 persons. The chapel roof is arched and has a height equal to two stories of the building. It will also be supplied with a handsome little gallery on the west end.

The auditorium will occupy the third floor. It has an immense floor space and a spacious stage. It will be used for athletics and will be furnished with every variety of supplies used in physical development. The athletic headquarters is an enthusiastic believer in the influence of intellectual drama and light comedy on young people has asked the sisters for the privilege of supplying the stage settings and all his own private possessions in the winter, at stated intervals, theatrical performances will be given there, and not only with an appreciation of legitimate moral drama but cultivated in the minds of the students, but they will be taught the graceful necessary to give them distinction at social parties in public theaters. The sisters guarantee girls to shine gracefully in the world and they have the good sense to know that as leading actresses in a social function of the most important in the life of cultured women.

From the same auditorium one gets an inspiring view of prairie grandeur. For miles to the west one can see the calm blue of the arched sky, the golden yellow of the corn, the green of the fields and the brown of the hills, and what a magnificent sunset, with the orb of day bathing in the golden vapor of the horizon, the autumn leaves of two or three fountains shimmering in its molten light, many of them for the last time.

In the basement are the assembly room of the sisters, store room, refectory, steam laundry, the lighting apparatus and many other thing of convenience and utility.

The building will be heated by steam-boiler gas and the electricity supplied by the feasibility of getting in a private electric light plant. The entire building will be heated by hot water. Two immense water tanks and a system will furnish the water supply and machinery will be employed in pumping it.

are teaching, while the others do the house work. The number of teachers will be increased to about twenty-five. The full course of the academy is twelve years, beginning with the primary grade, but of course, only a very few primary pupils attend. The sisters teach the higher mathematics, sciences, languages—Latin, Greek, French, German and Spanish—art, music, embroidery, domestic economy, and, in fact, everything necessary in the life of cultured womanhood.

All letters received and forwarded by students of the academy are subject to the inspection of the sister superior and parents are urged to send the names of all correspondents they may desire for their daughters.

No estates are allowed to be received by students from their parents except at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter, but fruit can be received by them at any time.

Pamphlets and newspapers sent to students are not delivered. The sisters subscribe for the good, clean daily papers and magazines and the young ladies have free access to them.

Students who desire to send pupils must be recommended.

Religious difference is no obstacle to the admission of pupils, and no religious views will be enforced upon them. In fact, a large percentage of the enrollment are Protestant young ladies.

The ambition of the sisters is to mould the hearts of their pupils to virtue and to impart a refined and healthy scholarship to them.

The institution is now in its fourteenth year, and its continued and increasing prosperity is, in a great measure, due to the influence of the girls who have graduated from it.

Long after everybody now living in Wichita is dead, Mount Carmel academy will be the trainer of their daughters. Its foundations are laid for the centuries that are to come. Its purpose is to carry out in the growing department of business college training which is at present very thorough in the academy.

LONDON'S PRISON SCHOOLS.

Boys Arrested for Minor Offenses Sent There and Reformed.

Since 1899 the city of London has undertaken the reformation and care of the boys arrested for minor offenses. This work has been performed by two industrial schools, one at Finsbury and the other at Mayford. The former is more than twice the size of the latter. The same methods are employed in each institution and the general administration of these schools is superior, when all points are considered, to that of similar institutions on this side of the water. In America these institutions are under state control, as a rule, and perhaps that may be the reason why they are not as well managed as in England.

Previous to 1899 the schools were under the control of local authority and the affairs were badly managed. Under the present administration of the London County Council the work of reformatory boys and getting them good positions at the expiration of their terms at some useful trade learned in the institution has been most successful.

At the large school 250 boys have been admitted since 1899, of which number 185 have been discharged or secured positions at some useful trade. At the close of the fiscal year of 1900 there were 71 boys in the school, of which 41 had been admitted during the year. Last year 178 boys were allowed to go out to work upon a sort of parole.

None of the confirmed criminal classes is admitted, as their contaminating influence is feared. The discipline maintained is not severe. Rules and regulations such as promote obedience, industry, thrift and health are rigidly adhered to, but the administration is conducted with the understanding of child nature—the fact that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" being taken into consideration. The gymnasium is made use of, the membership being divided into classes with regular courses of training. Besides this, every boy is taught to swim. At appropriate times during the year the boys are taken for rambles in the country. On other occasions they are taken into the field for games, principally cricket, and about once a year they are taken for a two-days' outing, usually ending up at some place of entertainment, last year it being at the circus.

The daily routine begins at 6 A. M. in summer, and from 6.30 to 7 A. M. in winter, when the boys are required to rise, fold their bedding, wash and dress. They are allowed a half-hour for dressing, when they are expected to report on the parade ground for drill.

At 8 A. M. they breakfast, and at 9 they enter upon their industrial or school duties. At 12 the recreation hour begins, of which the school boys have the first half and those who are in the workshops the last half, and at 1 o'clock they dine, after which another half-hour is given for recreation, when the school and other work is continued. From 4 to 5 P. M. the boys retire. A time is set aside for prayers both night and morning.

Of the 37 boys who were in the school during 1899, 30 passed through a regular course of instruction in the gymnasium, the others being excused. The average age during the year was as follows: In height, 54 inches; chest measurement, 24 inches; thigh, 14 inches; biceps, 10 inches. The course of instruction has been so efficient and helpful that in athletics the school has vanquished all competitors in the South and West of England, and has won the Home Office challenge cricket club cup, and the school captain led the club of England team in the match between North and South at Birmingham last year. The managers of the London schools have not forgotten that they were once boys, and therefore, they introduce sports and various recreative games and a healthy spirit of rivalry among the boys, which is sure to make stronger and better citizens.

This is an element which is, as a rule, lost sight of in similar institutions in the United States.

The trades taught include tailors, shoemakers, carpenters, painters, smiths, bricklayers, engineers, brickmakers, cooks, bakers, farm boys, sailors, laundry, menders, dining hall boys, hand boys. As the boys are committed to the schools in periods of from one to six years, most of them have an opportunity of learning some useful trade so that they are not so liable to go back to vicious habits.

The administration takes the place of father and mother to the boys and in maintaining discipline, finds it necessary to mete out punishment to some of the unruly members of the school. The superintendent of the institution reports a decrease in the number of punishments from 1900 to 1901. The punishments numbered 62, of which 26 were corporal, as compared with 88 and 22 for 1900.

The general conduct of the schools has yielded most flattering results and as compared with American methods leaves much to be learned by the authorities on this side of the water.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 26.—General Ignacio Abad, former president of Venezuela, accompanied by his wife and children, has been asked for the island of Curacao, by steamer Caracas, which arrived here from New York.

SEN. BURTON'S PLAN

He Shall Not Present Bills at the Coming Session.

HE IS FOR RECIPROCITY

And Will Work for a Measure of That Kind.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 26.—Senator J. R. Burton was "at home" to the Kansas Republican politicians at the Copeland today and quite a number availed themselves of the opportunity to whisper in both ears. Frank E. Grimes, clad in a new suit with creased trousers, acted as master of ceremonies and chief escort.

George Jones of Lima indicated that he would like to go in as a deputy internal revenue collector as soon as James Simpson takes the office. Jones has not received an absolute promise yet, but he is in the preferred list. He tried to switch from that list to the dead certainty list today, but did not succeed. He is sure, however, that he will get a place.

Ernest Jones asked a few minutes with the senator. He wants a subordinate job of any old kind that will keep the wolf from the door.

Representative Robert Dougherty of Harvey also inquired if there was any opening for him to edge in on something good. Dougherty has had a hard run of luck. He started out for counsel to Vera Cruz. He couldn't get that job. An Indiana man got it. Then he concluded he would like to have the Newton postoffice. That place is now held by Judge S. R. Peters. The judge was to be pension commissioner and Dougherty postmaster. But Peters is still postmaster and is likely to remain so. At least Dougherty thinks so and has given up hope of getting that place. Now he is open for any old thing, providing the salary is sufficient.

Senator John C. Carpenter of Nebraska "happened" to be here on other matters, dropped in and paid his respects to Senator Burton. Carpenter is not after anything more. Besides being a state senator, he is counsel for the Cherokee Indian tribe and chairman of the Kansas commission to the St. Louis fair. These three jobs keep him busy.

Ernest Jones simply showed up to remind the senator that he is still on the map and in good physical condition to take the United States marshalship when it turns up. He was championed by Representative C. F. Riddle of Commerce, who is slated for deputy marshal of the Wichita district.

Representative W. T. Short of Cloud dropped in to inform the senator everything was all right up that way and that he (Short) could be used for filling purposes in case the senator had more offices than applicants to fill them.

Tom Scates, register of the Dodge City land office, came in to get an inkling as to how long it would be before he had to walk the plank and make room for Frank Milklin. He was told that it wouldn't be very long now before he could become a P. C.

W. J. Fitzgerald of Dodge City, one of Burton's counselors and friends, remarked that everything was lovely in that end of the Big Seventh and that he might come back to the legislature next year, just to help elect a friend of Burton to a United States senatorship.

Charles Sprague went over the situation in Johnson county with the senator and intimated that he would be very improved, if he were made postmaster at Olathe.

Harry Richter had a little talk with the senator on the gubernatorial situation. He assured him that his prospects for landing the nomination were very bright. Among others here whom he was acquainted with were: District Attorney J. E. Dean, Senator Frank Vincent of Reno, James Chisham, postmaster of Atchison; Frank L. Brown, clerk of the federal court; Cyrus Leland, pension agent; Assistant State Treasurer T. T. Kelly, Judge J. C. Pollock, Ike Lambert and Leslie Randolph of McPherson.

Other statements to come tonight were: Senator Tom Noffziger of Harper; Senator H. L. Pestano of Russell; Otis L. Atherton of Russell; William Martindale of Lyons; James Simpson of McPherson; C. P. Drew and G. W. Doty of Osage.

After giving all these who wished to see him a show the senator went to the state treasurer's office and held a conference with Congressman Charles Christy. They talked over Kansas affairs, but neither would say anything about it to outsiders.

In discussing his course in congress this winter, the senator said: "A new member has a modest place and his comportment should be in keeping. I shall probably not present any measures this session, but esteem it my duty to join vigorously in the legislation proposed by others.

"It is national, and not state or special legislation that congress enacts and the welfare of the whole country is looked out for. Legislation will be shaped this session, I think, to the extension of the trade and commerce of the United States. As a country of manufacturers we have grown. We make more than we consume and must look for reciprocal markets across the sea.

"Reciprocity and protection go hand in hand. They sustain and support one another. They are cardinal principles of the Republican party and will be maintained. The tariff will no doubt be taken up and reduced in places where it has been shown excessive, as has been done before."

Senator Burton said that in his opinion Cuba would have to take the initiative in the movement looking toward annexation to the United States; that this country would not take the first step in the matter.

KANSAS EXHIBIT NEEDS MONEY.

At St. Louis She Will Look Before Beside Other States.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 26.—Senator J. C. Carpenter, of Nebraska, was here today conferring with Governor Sibley in regard to the proposed Kansas exhibit at the St. Louis exposition. He says that Kansas will get four acres of ground right next to Illinois and Missouri and that the Kansas commission will try and get up a creditable exhibit. It is laying its plans on the theory that the best exhibition will make an additional $75,000 appropriation.

"We don't know whether to ask the various countries to get up an additional fund or not," said he today. "Illinois will spend a half million on an exhibit and Missouri will spend twice as much. Kansas will only have a $75,000 exhibit unless the various countries do decide to do something on the side. We will know in a short time whether we will ask for any aid outside of the regular legislative appropriations.

"We hope to begin gathering up samples of wheat for the exhibit in a few weeks," said the senator. "We will start a man out on that work. Kansas has a fine quality of wheat this year; it may not have it next year. To be on the safe side we will just save some of the 1901 crop."

HIS UNKNOWN SIDE.

William Allen White says Roosevelt Has One.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 26.—In the November issue of McClure's Magazine, William Allen White, in his inimitable style, analyzes Roosevelt in a way which shows that the classified opinion in the light of the true light. Mr. White will be remembered as the author of the striking character sketches, "Hamlet," "Bryan," and "Crocker."

Mr. White says: "When Roosevelt said that he would follow McKinley's policy, it is foolish to pretend that he had no ulterior motive to give a servile imitation of McKinley. The new president will accept the McKinley legacy of unfinished work, but every unneeded problem will have to pass muster at the court of Roosevelt's personal conviction, and in forming this conviction the new president will show an almost unknown side of his character to the country.

Some people have expressed the fear that Roosevelt is dangerous in the presidency because he will have to undertake tasks new to him, and for which he is not prepared. These doubts, alas, are one of the essential points of this misapprehension. He has always attacked problems about which he knew nothing beforehand, and has solved them. It was so in the police commission. It was so in the navy department. It was eminently so in every crisis he has asked for help, has sought from first-class intellects their best wisdom, and has followed their advice, from practical men their soundest judgment. It is only when his mind is made up after a painstaking, exhaustive, study of the question that he has reached a conviction and followed by unswerving fidelity. This he is sure to do as president of the United States. Roosevelt brings to this high office an erudition ripened by a practical grapple with life; a political sagacity which has been at daily gymnastic exercises for twenty years in every manner of public contest. He is fit."

During the afternoon the federation discussed the practical work for clubs, the following ladies having places on the program:

"School Decorations," Mrs. J. H. Winterbottom, Salina; "Cemetery Improvements," Mrs. C. E. Wilcox, Salina; "Parks and Highways," Mrs. N. H. Reynolds, Clay Center; "Rest Rooms," Mrs. E. H. Grodrey, Manhattan; "Co-operation of clubs with Local Charities," Mrs. H. Harger, Abilene.

There were discussions and routine business and then the visitors were taken on a drive over the city.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. M. R. Brown, Salina; first vice president, Mrs. W. E. Dodge, Abilene; second vice president, Mrs. A. C. Pierce, Junction City; recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Gifford, Manhattan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. A. Burch, Salina; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Peckham, Clay Center; delegates to state federation, Mrs. A. C. Pierce, Junction City; Mrs. A. Porter, Marysville.

Next year's session will be held at Clay Center.

CAPTAIN ULINE TO GO AWAY.

He Will Join His Regiment Which is New York.

Salina, Kan., Oct. 26.—Captain Willie Uline, United States recruiting officer for this district, with headquarters at Kansas City, is to be relieved from duty December 1, after which he will return to the command of company F, Fifteenth United States infantry, now stationed at New York.

Captain William S. Scott, now detailed in the recruiting service at Des Moines, Ia., has applied for the district and may be assigned to it.

Captain Scott served in the war in the Philippines as lieutenant colonel of the Forty-fourth United States Volunteer Infantry. Captain Uline has served the three years allowed him officers in the recruiting service.

Mr. E. E. Brown of Guthrie charges Mr. E. E. Brown of Oklahoma City with opening his mail and making use of it. Which shows that the postoffice department has no money bed of it.
